

Part C – Decision Under Appeal

The decision under appeal is the Ministry of Social Development and Poverty Reduction's (the "Ministry") Reconsideration Decision of September 9, 2024. In the Reconsideration Decision, the Ministry determined that the Appellant was not eligible for an automatic door opener.

The Ministry found that the request:

- Did not qualify under Schedule C or section 69 of the Employment and Assistance for People with Disabilities Regulation because an automatic door opener is not a health supplement included under Schedule C.

The Ministry is satisfied that it is not reasonable to consider an automatic door opener to be a health care good or service. Therefore, an automatic door opener can be considered for a crisis supplement under section 57(3) of the Regulation. However, it does not qualify under that section because:

- The Appellant has not presented an unexpected need or expense for an automatic door opener.
- Insufficient information has been submitted related to the Appellant's medical condition.
- No information has been provided to establish that the Appellant does not have resources to meet her need for an automatic door opener.

The Ministry is satisfied that failure to provide a crisis supplement for an automatic door opener will result in imminent danger to the Appellant's physical health as required by section 53(1)(b)(i) of the Regulation.

Part D – Relevant Legislation

Employment and Assistance for Persons with Disabilities Regulation (the “Regulation”), Sections 57 and 69, and Schedule C.

Relevant sections of the Regulation can be found in the Schedule of Legislation at the end of this document.

Part E – Summary of Facts

The Appellant requested a written hearing of this appeal, which took place on December 12, 2024.

Background

- The Appellant is designated a Person with Disabilities.
- She is a partial quadriplegic secondary to transverse myelitis.
- She lives on the ground floor of her parent's house.

Information before the Ministry at the time of reconsideration

- A facsimile dated June 20, 2024, sent by the Appellant's Occupational Therapist ("OT") containing
 - A Home Modification Request completed by the OT and dated June 20, 2024, stating:
 - The Appellant is currently in the hospital, awaiting home support services to be arranged so she can return home.
 - Recently, the Appellant's automatic door opener stopped working and was deemed to require replacement.
 - The Appellant required the automatic door opener to:
 - Maintain her independence entering and exiting her home in her power chair as she is unable to open or close any door manually.
 - Let her home support workers into her home, as she is bedbound in the morning until they arrive to get her into her power chair.
 - A Service Proposal from an equipment provider, dated May 5, 2024, to replace the automatic door opener at a total cost of $1,960.35.
 - A Medical Equipment Request and Justification form,
 - Section 1 was completed by the Appellant and dated February 15, 2024.
 - Section 2 was not completed.
- A letter dated July 29, 2024, from a family physician (Dr. M) stating,

"I am writing to certify that (the Appellant) requires an automatic door opener due to complex and severe medical impairments including her paraplegia resulting from transverse myelitis."
- Request for Reconsideration, undated and unsigned
 - Under the Reasons for Request, the Appellant states:

- She has been quadriplegic since 1990.
- Care workers come to her four to five times a day. When they come, she must open the door with her automatic door opener. She cannot open the door herself.
- She cannot leave the house without the automatic door opener.
- She has many medical complications and has had to go to emergency many times. She needs the automatic door opener to let the paramedics in.
- She is also dependent on a range of support personnel: case workers, home care nurses, supervisor, case managers, care suppliers, etc.
- Her parents are old and have medical issues of their own which limit their ability to help.

Information submitted after the Reconsideration Decision

- Notice of Appeal, dated October 3, 2024.
 - In the Reasons for Appeal section, the Appellant reiterates the points raised in the Reasons for Reconsideration.
- Emailed submission from Appellant as part of Written Appeal process.
 - The Appellant reiterated the items already raised previously and added:
 - She is under lots of stress about the electric door opener and expressed how much she depends upon this device.
 - The stress is affecting her sleep and eating.
 - She is losing weight every day.
- Ministry's submission in response to Appellant's written submission. The Ministry states:

"The ministry's submission in this matter will be the reconsideration summary provided in the Record of Ministry Decision."

Admissibility of New Evidence

The panel accepts and admits the written submission provided by the Appellant as evidence under section 22(4) of the Employment and Assistance Act, which allows for the admission of evidence reasonably required for a full and fair disclosure of all matters related to the decision under appeal. The Ministry had no objection to the admissibility of this evidence.

Part F – Reasons for Panel Decision

The issue in this appeal is whether the Ministry's Reconsideration Decision that the Appellant was not eligible for an automatic door opener was reasonably supported by the evidence or was a reasonable application of the legislation in the circumstances of the Appellant.

The Panel considered the Appellant's eligibility for an automatic door opener under three parts of the Regulations:

- Schedule C of the Regulation provides a list of all medical supplies or devices that can be provided by the Ministry. The Panel notes that this is an exhaustive list. That is, if an item requested does not fit with what is listed, the Ministry has no flexibility to provide the item.
- Section 59 of the Regulation defines the conditions that can be provided in the event a person is facing a direct and imminent life-threatening need.
- Section 57 of the Regulation defines the conditions under which a Crisis Supplement can be provided.

Panel Analysis

Schedule C of the Regulation, Sections 2 and 3

Section 2 of Schedule C of the Regulation

Ministry Position

The Ministry is not satisfied that an automatic door opener is a medical supply. Medical and surgical supplies are either disposable or reusable but will eventually need to be replaced. An automatic door opener is a permanent item intended to last for several years and would likely be repaired rather than disposed once it has been consumed. This does not fit in the category of a single or multi-use consumable supply. Therefore, the request does not fit this category of health supplements.

While the Appellant requires an automatic door opener to open the door for home support, and for mobility into and out of her home, it is not required for the purposes listed in Schedule C section 2(1)(a)(i). She does not require this item to directly complete wound care, ongoing bowel care, catheterization, incontinence, skin parasite care, or limb circulation care.

Appellant's Position

The Appellant requires the automatic door opener to maintain her independence entering and exiting her home in her power chair as she is unable to open or close any door manually. She is dependent on a range of support personnel: case workers, home care nurses, supervisor, case managers, care suppliers, etc. Care workers come to her four to five times a day. When they come, she must open the door with her automatic door opener.

Panel's Findings

Section 2 of Schedule C of the Regulations says, "The following are the health supplements that may be paid for by the minister if provided to a family unit that is eligible under section 62 [general health supplements] of this regulation:"

Section 2(1)(a) and section 2(1)(a.1) of Schedule C of the Regulation provide for "medical or surgical supplies that are, at the minister's discretion, either disposable or reusable..." (emphasis added). Section 2(1)(a.2) of Schedule C of the Regulation provides "consumable medical supplies". In addition, each of these sections specifies the purpose for which the item must be used. The Panel finds that the use of an automatic door opener does not match the uses defined in any of these sections.

Section 2(1)(c) of Schedule C of the Regulation relates to the provision of acupuncture, massage therapy, chiropractic, naturopathy, non-surgical podiatry, and physical therapy services.

The Panel finds that an automatic door opener cannot reasonably be considered as disposable, reusable, consumable or a listed service.

Section 3 of Schedule C of the RegulationMinistry Position

The ministry finds that an automatic door opener is not included in the list of medical equipment which may be provided. As an automatic door opener is not included in the list of medical equipment that may be provided by the Ministry, the Ministry does not have the authority to provide funding for this item.

Appellant's Position

The Appellant requires the automatic door opener to maintain her independence entering and exiting her home in her power chair as she is unable to open or close any door manually. She is dependent on a range of support personnel: case workers, home care nurses, supervisor, case managers, care suppliers, etc. Care workers come to her four to five times a day. When they come, she must open the door with her automatic door opener.

Panel's Findings

Section 3(1) of Schedule C of the Regulation says, "Subject to subsections (2) to (5) of this section, the medical equipment and devices described in sections 3.1 to 3.12 of this Schedule are the health supplements that may be provided by the minister if"

Sections 3.1 through 3.12 of Schedule C of the Regulation provide for the following classes of medical devices: canes, crutches, and walkers; wheelchairs; wheelchair seating systems; scooters; toileting, transfers, and positioning aids; hospital bed; pressure relief mattresses; floor or ceiling lift devices; breathing devices; orthoses; hearing instruments; and non-conventional glucose meters.

After reviewing these sections, the Panel finds that the Ministry was reasonable in determining that an automatic door opener does not match any of these categories or the items permissible within each category. The Panel notes that the Appellant has not challenged this determination.

Schedule C of the Regulation, remaining sections

The remaining sections of Schedule C of the Regulation that provide health supplements are optical, eye examination, dental, denture, diet, nutritional, natal, infant, and hearing. There is no dispute that these sections are irrelevant to this hearing.

As the door opener does not fit within any of the categories of Schedule C of the Regulation, the Panel finds that the Ministry was reasonable in determining that the request for an automatic door opener was ineligible under Schedule C of the Regulation.

Section 69 of the Regulation

Section 69(1) of the Regulation provides for health supplements for persons facing a direct and imminent life-threatening need. The section says, "The minister may provide to a family unit any health supplement set out in sections 2 (1) (a) and (f) [general health supplements] and 3 [medical equipment and devices] of Schedule C, if the health supplement is provided to or for a person in the family unit who is otherwise not eligible for the health supplement under this regulation, and if the minister is satisfied that..."

The Appellant has been designated as a Person with Disabilities and is in receipt of disability assistance. As such, she is eligible to receive health supplements under section 62 and Schedule C of the Regulation provided all other eligibility requirements are met.

Because the Panel has found that the automatic door opener is not a health supplement set out in section 2(1)(a) and (f) and 3 of Schedule C of the Regulation, and because the Appellant is eligible to receive health supplements under the Regulation, the Panel finds that the Appellant is not eligible under Section 69 of the Regulation and the Ministry's decision about the application of this section of the Regulation was reasonable.

Section 57 of the Regulation*Ministry Position*

An automatic door opener is not described in the health supplements provided under Schedule C of the Regulation. Further, the Ministry finds it is not reasonable to consider an automatic door opener to be a health care good or service. Therefore, an automatic door opener can be considered for a crisis supplement under section 57(3) of the Regulation.

However, the Appellant has not presented an unexpected need or expense for an automatic door opener. In addition, insufficient information has been provided related to the Appellant's medical condition. Based on the information provided, the Ministry cannot establish an unexpected need for this item.

The Ministry is unable to establish that the Appellant does not have resources to meet the need for an automatic door opener, as no information has been provided.

The Ministry is satisfied that failure to provide a crisis supplement for an automatic door opener will result in imminent danger to the Appellant's physical health, as she will be in danger if she is unable to open the door herself.

Appellant's Position

The Appellant has been diagnosed with quadriplegia since 1990, and since then, she has been dependent on numerous devices, care workers, and other support workers. Her care workers come to assist her about four to five times daily, and when they arrive, she must use the electric door opener to let them in because she cannot open the door herself. They would leave without providing her care if they cannot come in. She is also unable to attend any medical appointments without the electric door opener as she cannot even leave her house without this help. She often needs to visit the emergency room, but without the electric door opener, she cannot let paramedics in to help her. Her doctor has certified that she has an urgent need for the automatic door opener to replace the one that stopped working recently.

Panel's Findings

Section 57 of the Regulation says:

"The minister may provide a crisis supplement to or for a family unit that is eligible for disability assistance or hardship assistance if

- a) the family unit or a person in the family unit requires the supplement to meet an unexpected expense or obtain an item unexpectedly needed and is unable to meet the expense or obtain the item because there are no resources available to the family unit, and
- b) the minister considers that failure to meet the expense or obtain the item will result in imminent danger to the physical health of any person in the family unit, ...

The only evidence provided pertaining to whether the need to replace the automatic door opener was unexpected is in the Home Modification Request completed by the OT. In the Home Modification Request the OT says, "Recently, the automatic door opener in her home stopped working and it was determined to need replacement." There is no evidence provided of the age of the system that broke down and whether its replacement could/should have been anticipated.

The OT and Dr. M have both indicated there is an urgent need for the Appellant to have an automatic door opener because of the Appellant's quadriplegia due to transverse myelitis, and her reliance on home care workers. The OT has stated that the Appellant cannot use her upper extremities to open or close any doors and that the Appellant is bedbound until such time as her home care workers arrive in the morning to transfer her to her power chair. While medical condition is not part of the legislated criteria for providing a crisis supplement, the Ministry may use it to assure there is an actual need for the device requested. Based on the evidence from Dr. M and the OT, the Panel finds that the Ministry was not reasonable in determining that there was insufficient evidence pertaining to the Appellant's medical condition to establish the need.

No evidence was submitted before the Reconsideration Decision or in the subsequent submission from the Appellant pertaining to her financial situation. Therefore, the Panel finds there is no basis for determining whether the Appellant has the resources available to replace the automatic door opener.

There is no dispute that failure to obtain the automatic door opener necessary for access to the suite would result in an imminent danger to the physical health of the Appellant.

However, while the Panel finds the need for the automated door opener was sufficiently established, the Panel finds that the Ministry was reasonable in determining that there is insufficient evidence provided to determine whether the Appellant requires the supplement to meet an unexpected expense or obtain an item unexpectedly needed and that there was also insufficient financial information provided to assess whether the Appellant had the resources to obtain the requested automatic door opener.

Summary

The Panel finds that the Ministry:

- Was reasonable in determining that the Appellant's request for an automatic door opener could not be satisfied under Schedule C of the Regulation, Health Supplements, or under Section 69 of the Regulation, Direct and Imminent Life-threatening Health Need.
- Was reasonable in determining that the Appellant's request could be addressed under Section 57 of the Regulation, Crisis Supplement.
- Was reasonable in determining that the following criteria for a Crisis Supplement were not met because there was insufficient information provided by the Appellant:

- The Appellant requires the supplement to meet an unexpected expense or obtain an item unexpectedly needed.
- The Appellant is unable to meet the expense or obtain the item because there are no resources available.
- Was not reasonable in determining there was insufficient information about the Appellant's medical condition to establish the need for the automatic door opener.

Conclusion

The Panel finds that the Ministry decision that the Appellant was not eligible for an automatic door opener is a reasonable interpretation of the existing legislation and is supported by the evidence.

The Panel confirms the Reconsideration Decision and the Appellant's appeal is unsuccessful.
