THE APPLICATION

On October 25, 2013, FortisBC Energy Inc. (FEI) applied to the British Columbia Utilities Commission (the Commission) for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity (the Application) for the Huntingdon Station Bypass. Huntingdon Station is located south of Abbotsford, BC approximately 3 km east of the Huntingdon, BC and Sumas, Washington border crossing.

The proposed bypass is intended to remove the Huntingdon Station as a single point of failure on the system and reduce the risk of loss of natural gas supply to customers downstream of the Huntingdon Station in the event of a Station shutdown.

The approximate location of the bypass route is shown on the map below.
